

Iron County Register

Entered in the Post Office at Ironton, Mo., as Second Class Matter.

VOLUME XLVIII. NUMBER 20.

Ironton, Missouri,
THURSDAY - - - OCT. 22, 1914.

LOCAL BREVITIES.

Pumpkins are in.
The election draws nigh.
The sere and yellow leaf.
Some beautiful fall roses.

Kathlyn pictures Thursday, October 22d.

No aspirants for the township offices?
Election matters crowd the paper this week.

Mare and Colt for Sale—Inquire at this office.

Third installment of Lucille Love, Friday, October 23d.

It is thought our street improvement will begin soon.

A quiet campaign, it seems. Warming up a little, though.

Never so many home-grown vegetables in October before.

The creeks are normal after the prolonged drouth of 1914.

The Probate Docket for the November term is printed this week.

Circuit court convenes next Monday. The docket is printed in this issue.

Mr. R. G. Farther last week presented us with some very fine radishes.

The city council will examine the bids submitted for building the streets to-morrow night.

Don't forget Rally Day at the Presbyterian church, Sunday, October 25th. Everyone invited.

If you wish to sell your farm list it with G. W. Duffee, Arcadia. Specialty of fruit and stock farms.

The Baptist ladies are arranging to issue another edition of the famed "Arcadia Valley Cook Book."

Pigs For Sale—Bunch of fine Shoats, 50 to 60 pounds each. One mile north-east of Ironton. W. P. NEVILL.

I have a few Hereford Bulls for sale—aged 6 to 9 months.

J. H. LONG, Bellevue, Mo.

Circuit court convenes next Monday. After a two days' session an adjournment will be taken until after the election.

Mr. Kanouse has a patch of alfalfa near his garden in south Ironton, from which he has cut four crops this season—dry as it was most of the summer.

Roy E. Simonton, of Chloride, who entered the army in October, 1913, was promoted to Sergeant September, 18th. He is now stationed in the Hawaiian Islands.

The Diamond Jubilee—the 60th anniversary of her entrance into the order—of Sister Monica of the Ursulines is being celebrated at Arcadia College to-day (Wednesday).

It is proposed to build some sort of a footway across the creek in Knob town—one that when the creek rises the water will flow over it and it will not be washed away.

For the coming two weeks we offer Home-Made Lard in Pails, as follows: 3 lb. Pails, 40 cents; 5 lb. Pails, 65 cents; 10 lb. Pails, $1.25; and 50 lb. Can, $8.00. BASLER & KUHN.

The two Buckley children, who developed diphtheria about ten days ago, are getting along nicely. No new cases have been reported and it is now reasonably certain there will be none.

Superintendent Carroll and Trainmaster Cheatham of the Iron Mountain railroad at Poplar Bluff are in Ironton today distributing literature against the adoption of the so-called "full crew law."

It is probable that Congressman Caraway of the First Arkansas district will deliver a couple of Democratic speeches in Iron County next week. Mr. Caraway has a reputation as an orator.

The Ladies' Social Club held a very enjoyable meeting Tuesday of last week, with Mrs. J. N. Bishop as hostess. Topic: Current Events. Delicious refreshments were served with "Halloween" favors.

The funeral of Mrs. Vester Woolum, who was formerly Miss Artie Woods, of Pilot Knob, was held from the Baptist church Tuesday afternoon. The remains were brought here from Indiana for interment.

Marvin College at Fredericktown and Carleton College at Farmington are to be consolidated next September. Whether Farmington or Fredericktown will get the consolidated school is yet to be determined.

An oyster supper will be given by the Ladies' Aid Society in the basement of the Baptist church, Thursday evening, October 29th. Supper will be served from 6 to 10 o'clock. The public is cordially invited to come and partake.

Hon. Cornelius Roach, Secretary of State, will address the voters of Iron County at the courthouse this (Wednesday) afternoon. Mr. Roach is an unusually well informed man and a pleasing talker. He should be greeted with a good audience.

Messrs. Trauernicht, Ringo and Baldwin, the commissioners appointed to look after the expenditures of the state money on the county roads, made a trip to Marble Creek last week. With one or two exceptions they found that thoroughfare in good condition for ten miles south. When one or two bad places are repaired they say it will be a fair automobile road.

Evangelists Burk and Hobbs, according to present expectations, will begin a tabernacle or tent meeting here November 21. Their great success at Ironton, Bismarck and in the Lead Belt encourages Piedmont church people to hope for a great meeting here.—Piedmont Banner.

Three cars of a north-bound stock train were derailed at the Ironton station early last Saturday morning. Three cattle were killed outright in the accident and several more so badly injured that they had to be put to death. The wreck occurred on the side track and did not block traffic.

There may be no blanket ballot this year, after all. Some are contending that the law was not legally passed by the last legislature and the matter is now in the Supreme Court. That tribunal will probably pass on the question to-day or to-morrow. In the meantime the printing of the tickets is delayed.

Church and Sunday School Rally at the M. E. Church in Ironton next Sunday morning, beginning at 10:30. There will be Rally Day Program rendered, consisting of songs, recitations and addresses. The pastor will preach in the evening, 7:30.

M. N. POWERS, Pastor.

A. H. Webb, Superintendent of the Missouri Pacific Railway at Wichita, Kansas, and Mr. J. V. Webb, of Carbondale, Illinois, were in Ironton Monday as the guests of O. W. Roop and wife. Messrs. Webb were on their way to the west end of the county—their boyhood home. The REGISTER acknowledges a much appreciated call.

Ab. Curtis, an old Iron county boy, was here for a few hours Saturday on his way to Sikeston, Mo., where he went to take in custody one Floyd Mabry, charged with violating his parole, and place him back in the penitentiary at Jefferson City. Ab. has been an employee in the big prison for a long while and is considered a very efficient man.

The Mothers' and Patrons' League at Ironton School building, November 4, at 3:30 o'clock p. m. Violin Solo, Miss Marshall; Reading, Mrs. Hattie Kindell; Piano Solo, Miss Kendall; "Paper Reading in the Home," Miss Shane; Discussion, Leader, Mrs. Reese. All members are asked to take part in the discussion of the question, "What Shall the Year's Work Be?"

The business men of Piedmont are now the owners of a fine pair of blood hounds from Max J. Kennedy's kennels, Fredonia, Kans. Hereafter the merchants will enjoy their slumber better in consciousness that if thieves break into their stores there will be better chances than formerly to catch them. Constable Jim Turner made up about $75 dollars worth of dogs to buy the dogs and build a kennel for them. He will care for the animals, and the city may pay for their keep.—Piedmont Banner.

Sunday's St. Louis Post-Dispatch: "The annual endurance contest of the Motorcycle Club of St. Louis was run this season to Arcadia, Mo., and return, 210 miles over the Ozark Mountains. The heavy rains had washed great holes in the roads and also washed out a bridge so that the riders had to use the railroad bridge and ties for miles. No serious trouble occurred, but there was much tire trouble on the hard grind and many blow-outs. Of 31 entries, however, 15 finished with creditable scores. The club members say they would like to see an automobile try to follow them on one of their runs, particularly the last one."

Readers of the REGISTER will recall an article printed in this paper last week taken from the St. Louis Republic telling of a man having been stripped and robbed at Bismarck a few nights before and tied to a tree and left to perish of cold. Recent investigation has led to the belief that the robbery was a "fake." That the three men—the one robbed and the two who did the robbing—worked together. The man who was robbed (?) excited much sympathy, was given $25 and a suit of clothes. It is thought that he is now with his pals again and they are on the way to greener fields. Surely such a scheme to secure a little cash is novel, if not commendatory. Next.

One of the boldest pieces of thievery imaginable was exhibited Tuesday night when the house of John Dale near the depot was robbed of $450. Sometime during the night the thief crawled up the porch on the outside in front, pried off a screen from an outside window, passed through the upstairs hall, came downstairs and entered a closet in the room where Mr. Dale sleeps and carried away the money, regaining the street by the same route he entered. Mr. Dale is a sound sleeper and knew nothing of the loss until morning when he found a pair of trousers upstairs where the thief had left them. The money belonged to Mr. Dale's son, Walter, who had given it to his mother for safe keeping. It was kept in a closet and as far as Mr. Dale knew not a soul outside the family knew of its presence. So far as we know there is no clew.—Fredericktown Democrat-News.

Writes the Ironton Correspondent of the Potosi Journal: "Last Thursday and Friday it rained here almost continuously, causing an unprecedented flood. Friday night the downpour came in solid sheets. Big River near here rose 14 inches higher than during the record flood of 1876, and Dry Creek, that runs through town, became a raging torrent, sweeping away the old blacksmith shop and stock scales that stood on the mill lot. The water ran over the new wagon bridge, breaking down part of the guard-rail and washing away both approaches.

The culvert under the railroad track was too small to carry off the flood and the water backed up several hundred feet. A heavy train was kept standing on the culvert to hold it down and prevent a break in the line. Two stone culverts along the railroad and much of the roadbed between this place and Bismarck were washed out. Disastrous train wrecks were undoubtedly averted by the prompt action of Station Agent W. H. Martin, in sending out flagmen to stop northbound trains, while he himself waded waist deep through water to reach a point where he could flag a southbound train. The swinging bridge over the river between this place and Powelltown was washed away."

Aug. Trauernicht and wife were here the first of the week after a sojourn of a couple of weeks in Hot Springs. They left Monday for their home in Bonne Terre.

Lecture and Entertainment Course.

Our community is to be favored this season with a course of high class lectures and entertainments consisting of five numbers of the very best talent the Lyceum Bureau can afford. The course is guaranteed by a substantial number of citizens, and is given not with a view of making money, but solely for the purpose of enabling the community to have the benefit of platform talent they could not otherwise enjoy.

The numbers will be given in the Ironton Academy of Music on the following dates:

November 25, Maude Stevens Company, musical and dramatic.

December 17, Geo. C. Aydelott, lecturer.

January 19, De Koven Male Quartette, vocal and instrumental.

February 9, Edward Elliott, impersonator.

April 1, Chas. H. Plattenburg, lecturer.

The season ticket for the entire five numbers has been put at the modest price of two dollars for adults and one dollar for children. Single admission will be fifty cents for adults, and twenty-five cents for children.

In addition to the five numbers, the Maude Stevens Company will give a Saturday afternoon Children's concert. The price of admission to this concert will be 10 cents for school pupils; 15 cents for adults holding season tickets; for all others fifty cents.

Season tickets can be secured of E. L. Cook, Burdette Taylor, Jacob Timms or Mrs. Francis. It will be well to let one of these persons know, as soon as possible, how many tickets you are going to want.

MILFORD RIGGS, Chairman of the Committee.

David Myers.

Died.—At the residence of his daughter, Mrs. Henry Kendal, Ironton, Mo., Friday, October 16, 1914, David Myers, aged 79 years, 8 months and 17 days. The funeral was held the succeeding Sunday from the Episcopal church, at 2:00 o'clock p. m., a large concourse attending, conducted by the local K. P. Lodge.

Deceased had been a resident of this city for thirty-five years. His avocation was that of miller, and for thirty years worked in that capacity in the mill of the Ironton Manufacturing Company, finally retiring because of age. He was a native of Pennsylvania, and was united in marriage with Margaretta Rickabaugh in 1860. To this union eight children were born, of whom three survive. A happy wedded life of nearly fifty years was ended by the death of the mother six years ago and the old home broken up, as it always is when the one who makes it home ceases her labors and folds her hands in eternal rest.

Mr. Myers was a plain, every-day citizen, of unblemished integrity and kindly heart. Well versed in the current events of his time, he intelligently pursued the course of duty. Though not loud in his religious profession, he was an earnest and sincere member of the Episcopal church; charitable in thought and helpful in distress. To the bereaved members of his family I extend condolence and sympathy. They have comfort in the contemplation of their father's unswerving life.

Card of Thanks.

We desire to return our most sincere thanks to the good people of Ironton and the Arcadia Valley for the kindness and sympathy shown us in our great loss—the death of our dear father. Long will we cherish your memory.

Zude-Johnson.

Married.—In the Lutheran church, Pilot Knob, Mo., Rev. C. C. Brandt officiating, Mr. Gustav William Zude, of Stanton, Illinois, and Miss Allie Blonden Johnson, of Ironton.

After the ceremony, the bride and groom, bridesmaids and "best man," with their relatives and friends returned to Ironton, where the reception was held at the residence of the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Pearl Hill. About one hundred people—including the Ozarks Brass Band—were in attendance. Although unhappily unable to attend at the church, I did take a little part in the subsequent proceedings, and they reminded me of the earlier days when people were neighborly and not so formal and coldly dignified as to make participation therein perfunctory burdensome—or burdening perfunctory: choose the term you like. Everybody was exceedingly happy, with a fixed determination to make everybody else so. The music of laughter ringing from youthful hearts, always attractive to the ear of genial age, brightened and gave added pleasure to the evening. And the supper! Never did willing guests sit down to a more inviting repast. Turkey, chicken, ham, pickles, salads, coffee—O, the good things under which the table groaned, are beyond my enumeration. There were the towering white bride's cake and the bridesmaids' attendant cakes, besides others unnumbered. Again and again was the ample table assailed by waiting relays, but it showed naught of depletion. Its plenitude was impervious to the fiercest and most determined attack. After supper the ladies employed themselves after their manner with music and converse, while the male contingent enjoyed the digestive aid a good cigar conserves. And so too quickly passed the hours to when "Good night" was given one another.

Our limited space forbids the printing of the list of presents—they were many, and some of them costly—or even a description of the habiliments of the bride and bridesmaids. I can't help it if my fair readers sniff at me for this; the matter is beyond my control, and to my own regret.

To Mr. and Mrs. Zude the REGISTER wishes every happiness. The bride is one of the Valley's fairest flowers, and I believe the new-made husband is conscious of the prize he has won. They left Sunday for Stanton, Ill., their future home, followed by the good wishes of a host of friends.

Fort Hill Methodist Church.

The pastor and his wife have been very cordially received by the church, and many assurances have been given of hearty cooperation on the part of the members.

The attendance upon all the services has been good. The attendance thus far upon prayer meeting has been equal to 15 per cent of the membership. The interest manifested in all services has been fine.

Exceedingly courteous and brotherly was the act of Rev. Mr. Powers of the Ironton M. E. Church, in bringing his congregation to Fort Hill on Sunday morning, and worshiping with us. The pastor and his flock very highly appreciate the compliment thus paid, and assure these brethren that their kindly sentiments are heartily reciprocated.

The theme next Sunday morning will be "Some Lessons from the Present War in Europe." The evening theme will be, "Life or Death—Which?" A cordial invitation is given the public to attend all services.

More About Bankers Trust.

(St. Louis Times.)
Harry C. Morrow, former special vice-president of the Bankers' Trust Company, Thursday filed suit against five directors of the company for $105,275, which sum he says they induced him to invest in the trust company's stock by falsely representing its value. He credits $6000 he admits he received in dividends.

The defendants named in the petition are: John E. Franklin and Charles S. Marsh, both of 6316 Waterman avenue; Lester S. Parker, Commonwealth Trust building; John P. Graham, Graham Lumber Company, Wright Building, and Stevens B. Hunter, Cape Girardeau.

Morrow declares the defendants owned large amounts of stock in the trust company and maintained a syndicate to keep up the market price. They impaired the standing of the company, he asserts, by paying themselves and other stockholders enormous dividends for the purpose of deceiving the public as to the earnings of the company.

Morrow says he was in business in Whitehall, Ill., in April, 1913, when the defendants induced him to come to St. Louis to become vice-president of the trust company and manager of a department, telling him it would be necessary for him to hold a large amount of stock in order to be vice-president.

They valued the stock in the company at $200 a share, he says, and declared the company could liquidate within 12 months and pay that sum to each stockholder. At that time, he says, the company was insolvent.

Mr. Morrow declares he bought 500 shares from Franklin at $195 a share, and 45 shares from others, at a price not named in his petition.

Des Arc Items.

One of the greatest revival meetings we have ever known in Des Arc has just closed. Sunday morning and evening there were 500 people in the Baptist church. There was no standing room and many had to remain on the outside. There have been 57 conversions; 25 were taken into the M. E. church and 12 were baptized. Up to the present 23 have united with the Baptist church and more to be taken in later. There were 21 baptized on Sunday afternoon. Among them: Judge Wm. Stevenson, wife and daughter, and R. H. Stevenson and son. We are glad to see our business men coming to the front and taking their stand for Christ! R. I. Stamp, another of our merchants, is also a convert. It certainly made us happy Sunday morning to see him come in and take his stand among the Christian people. Our town is aroused as never before in its history and we thank God for sending such a wonderful man as Bro. Oscar Taylor among us. He is certainly a man of wonderful power. He and Bro. Strother, who assisted him in the meeting, have been called to other fields to work, and we hope they meet with the success they have met with here. People who want a good revival would do well to call them.

Quite a crowd from Brunot, Piedmont and Patterson were here Sunday to attend the revival which closed Sunday night.

Ben Keathley was here Sunday from St. Louis.

Mrs. Ethel Parker from St. Louis is visiting her parents, Judge Stevenson and wife.

Miss Allie Fitz has returned home from Farmington.

Drew Lewis was here last week from Pangburn, Ark.

Miss Lotie Eustes has returned from Farmington.

Massey Ruble and wife were here from Piedmont Sunday.

Mrs. Lee Dunn spent Sunday here with Mrs. John Stevenson.

Mrs. R. H. Stevenson, Mrs. J. H. Stevenson, Rev. Wm. Seals, Prof. Hester and wife, Rev. Taylor and wife attended the Assembly at Malden last week.

John Nation spent Sunday with his family here.

Have you tried the New drink called Cherry Chic, which can be had at the Kandy Kitchen?

Annapolis News.

Hazy and cloudy this morning and looks like summer time.

Squire Kitchell was called to Vulcan Saturday to do some notarial work.

John Dechaney of near Vulcan is home for the first time in six months. He has been working on the West Fork of Black river in Reynolds county and says times are dull there.

Mr. Culton is cleaning up his woodland, fixing it up to sell, should a buyer happen along.

The election in a couple of more weeks. Let the Democrats all get to the polls and vote straight. Our ticket is worthy faithful support.

John Thomas went to St. Louis last week to see his wife who has been in a hospital the past two months.

Marion Tucker is moving to Piedmont where he will conduct an automobile repair shop.

county made a flying trip to Ironton last Saturday to see if there were any vacant places on the Democratic ticket; finding none he came back home and will work for the Democratic ticket from head to finish, as he always has done.

Sam Moss and wife went out near Lesterville to church Saturday and Sunday. There was dinner on the ground and a large attendance.

Sam Moss and son, William, are putting up a blacksmith shop at Sabula.

Alonzo Miller and family of Crane Pond are visiting his son, Robert Miller, and family in Annapolis.

Fred Warner, who recently moved from Annapolis to Black river, wants to return to town, if he can find a vacant house, which is doubtful.

Scott Loyd is in town to-day.

R. A. Dunn made a trip to Hogan Saturday, to see his sister, Mrs. Smith.

The weather being bad last Friday interfered with a big spelling match between the Annapolis and Minimum schools. That is an old-time game practiced but little these days. I remember as far back as 1856, when the school I attended was taught by a young man by the name of McCartney. He had 100 pupils and they were all kept busy. We were taken to Calcedonia that year to speak against children from other towns, and carried off the honors. We were very proud. Every Friday we had spelling matches and the last day of school we spelled all day long. The Calcedonia I refer to is in Illinois, not far from Cairo. A son of the man who taught me in those days was long years afterwards the instructor in the same county of our prosecuting attorney, Mr. Damron.

Goodwater Items.

One of the heaviest rains in years fell here on the night of the 9th inst. The high water did much damage to the land, roads and fences; besides washing away quite a lot of feed. Mrs. Abbott and Messrs. Merritt and King had to leave their houses on account of high water.

Mr. W. A. Abney had a fine calf drowned by the high water.

Messrs. D. C. Lucas, Olin and Homer Love, of St. Louis, are visiting home folks.

Mr. Oma Gilliam died near here on the evening of the 14th.

There was baptizing here last Sunday.

The tie-business is on the bum here. Some lumber is being shipped from some of the mills.

The following candidates have been here during the past few days: J. M. Hawkins, Arthur Huff, C. P. Damron, W. A. Townsend, J. C. Forshee and H. B. Jones.

Ottawa Valley Items.

Sunday School is progressing well. Everybody seems to be interested and doing their best to make it a success.

Our teacher had a good program Patron's Day. It seems to me that the patrons of this district are not so much interested in the work as they might be. Parents, don't you realize that it is your duty to go and encourage both teacher and children in their work?

Miss Jordan closed school last week on account of her brother, Maurice Dutton's, death. The many friends of the family sympathize with them in their bereavement.

Claude Black has been having a bad time with his hand. It is affected with what old timers called catarrh. It is better at the present writing.

Mr. T. D. Fultz and little daughter, Elsie, visited at Mr. A. E. Westerman's recently.

Mr. W. T. Hensley, ex-postmaster of Edgehill, left the first of this month for his home in Lesterville, preparatory to drifting south with the birds.

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Goggin visited parents on Ottava Sunday.

Mr. Andrew Harbison is home for an indefinite time. The mill, at which he has been working, is shut down.

Born—To Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Harbison, a boy, October 4.

Billy Latham has treated himself to a new rig. Now see him ride in style!

Mr. and Mrs. Kelley Wilson visited with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. N. A. Bell, this week.

Mr. Wm. Mansbridge is expecting to be home soon. Mr. Fred Mansbridge, wife and little son, Herbert, of St. Louis, and her father, Mr. Untiedt, of Marshfield, intend coming with him.
